RCMP Accident Report For 1960

From January 1 to December 31, 1960, 203 fatal accidents in which 268 people were killed were investigated by the RCMP in Alberta. This is a considerable increase over 1959 when 223 people were killed in 147 accidents. In addition to the number of persons killed, a large number were seriously injured, some being maimed for life.

Additional to the fatal accidents 8,182 non-fatal accidents occurred inflicting great property loss and much serious injury. This is an increase of 2512 accidents over 1959. Of the fatal accidents, 94 involved only one car, this being an increase of 22 over last year. This type of accident consistently causes more deaths than any other and it is considered that all of them are easily preventable with proper care on the part of the operator. In short, more people are killing themselves and their passengers by their own bad driving habits than from any other cause.

Vehicle-train accidents are still showing an increase rising from 6 in 1959 to 10 in 1960. The number of persons killed increased 400 per cent from 6 to 31. Pedestrians were killed in 24 accidents compared with 15 in 1959. There were 40 head-on collisions compared with 30 — 20 near-fatal rear-end collisions compared with 19 and 6 persons operating farm tractors on the highway were killed compared with 5 in 1959.

The problem of "Driving While Under Suspension" is increasing to a serious point with 540 cases in 1960 compared with 512 in 1959.

"Impaired Driving" cases decreased in 1960 to 670 cases compared to 710 in 1959, while "Drunk Driving" remained static at 60 cases each year. Ten drivers were charged with "Motor Manslaughter," an increase of 4 over 1959.

Leaver was involved in one way or another in 58 of the fatal accidents, and 114 of these occurred in daylight hours, while 89 occurred in the dark hours. Thirty-one prosecutions were entered in respect to the fatal accidents.

There were 156 persons charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident and criminal negligence compared with 172 in 1959.

The most dangerous hours in which the preponderance of accidents occur are between 3 p.m. and 1 a.m., reaching a peak between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. However, all these hours show double the number of accidents when compared with between 1 a.m. and 3 p.m.

While vehicle registration has increased from 453,613 to 476,229, in 1960, the accident record is proportionately higher than registration increase. It was recorded despite an increase in Highway Patrol personnel, additional patrols by all police staff, increased police equipment, and around the clock, 24-hour patrols. In 1960 our Highway Patrols covered a total of 2,250,000 miles.

It is obvious that the police alone cannot stop this carnage on the highways and that the assistance of every citizen is required if they wish to help save their cars, their own lives and those of their families.

No 'warnings' will be issued for 'moving violations' of the V and H. T. Act in future and all police patrols will continue to enforce the Act vigorously.

Lions Hold Regular Meeting

It is anticipated that six or seven local Scouts will qualify to attend the Canadian Scout Jamboree scheduled to be held in Ottawa from July 3 to 14, and attempts are being made to send as many local boys as possible.

It was pointed out that the cost of sending one Scout to the Jamboree would be in the near vicinity of $175.00, of which amount the boys are required to provide $75.00, so that in order to send seven local Scouts the cost would total $525.00. Wage Cut For All?

Recently a newspaper editor wrote about an odd conversation he overheard in a coffee shop.

According to the account, a commercial traveller announced that he would like to take a pay cut—provided everyone in Canada, from the Prime Minister down, did the same thing.

Though it is unlikely to happen, the idea is intriguing. The salesman obviously thought that he would be much better off if he took less pay, along with everyone else, because the results would be helpful.

The first result would be a lowering of prices. The largest factor in the price of virtually everything is the payroll required to produce it. The second result would be an increase in the sale of Canadian products wherever they compete with foreign products. At the moment, most foreign products are priced lower than our own because foreign manufacturers have lower payrolls to meet and more favorable tax rates.

The third result, the salesman figured, would be more jobs.

If Canadian merchandise began to win back foreign markets and regain the domestic market, business would hum again and everyone would be able to get a job.

The salesman, apparently, was able to outline a host of other benefits. The pensioners would find that their dollars would keep them in reasonable comfort instead of, as now, in mere subsistence.

The government, of course would benefit too—because more of us would be paying income taxes, the unemployment insurance fund would be secure again, and there would be a renewed confidence and vitality in the entire economic structure.

Today some of us are taking cuts whether we want to or not. The process the salesman talks about is taking place wherever individuals are unable to hold monopoly power. Labor union leaders are able to get increases for the men at work, but the unemployed become more numerous and suffer more.

Farmers are taking a cut; writers, as I know full well, are taking a cut; business, in many cases, is not only taking a cut—it is suffering disastrous losses. The government, however, is not forced to take a cut because it is able to practice deficit financing, but all of us will have to pay for the deficits sooner or later.

The flaw in the salesman's argument is that there are monopolies, and the labor union leaders control one of the biggest monopolies of all. They do not have to take a cut; they may even demand and get increased wage rates—until everything falls to the ground like a house of cards!

Then they will blame it all on government or on business.

Pearl necklace—one of women's rights

The gift of pearls carries a special connotation in that pearls grow more beautiful in contact with the wearer.

Because of its gentle color and smooth shape, the pearl is also the symbol of modesty and purity, says Jewellery designer Marianne Ostler in her recent book "Jewels and the Woman". No wonder women love the pearl and prize it as a gift, for the compliment it carries as well as for its beauty! It should be the right of every woman to own at least one strand of beautiful, carefully selected and lovingly matched cultured pearls.

Her first pearl necklace—unless the recipient has expressed a definite preference to the contrary—should probably be a single strand just long enough to fill in the hollow of the throat.

This length can be worn—and you may be sure it will be—with a cashmere sweater, with a tailored suit and soft blouse, with a high-necked dress, with a low-cut dress—in short, with practically everything in a woman's wardrobe. The single strand pearl necklace is equally at home at the opera and the super-market, with mink and with wash-and-wear.

After the first necklace may be added chokers, one-stranders, two-stranders, three-and-four-stranders and really long lengths.

The pearl necklace is a perfect "starter" to which other gifts or pearls may be added throughout the years.

Pearl bracelets, rings, brooches and clips are just a few of the possibilities. Pearl earrings are a special favorite of clever women who know how they add lustre to the eyes and complexion.

Pearls enhance all metals and all topazes as well as diamonds. Thus the gift of pearls will go with all the other jewels a woman may come to own.

Great jewel connoisseurs through the ages have loved to combine pearls with other gems in the same piece of jewellery. Wealthy Roman matrons prized pearls and emeralds. Potentates of the East, the home of the pearl, were partial to rubies and pearls. The French have always loved delicate jewellery fashioned of gold, pearls and diamonds.

Today pearls are combined with all precious gems in jewellery; from pearl button earrings or a modest clip for $20 or less, to brooches and tiaras of unmistakable grandeur.

While most of us think of pearls in the more familiar creamy white color, the connoisseur includes those that glow with a pink or bluish-gray iridescence. Rarest are the large black pearls—truly gems of exotic beauty!

Extension and completion of present and proposed irrigation projects in Alberta such as the Bow and the St. Mary project will add almost 200,000 acres to the present 993,000 acres of irrigated land.

WHERE DID HE GET THE PANTS?

Primitive man was so puny an animal we might wonder how he got the skins he wore. One theory is that the other animals laughed themselves to death at the sight of him. But man had the last laugh—by putting nature's energy to work he became earth's most powerful creature.

In Canada our most important energy source is petroleum. The reason—oil is made available wherever it is needed, the price is right, and product quality has been constantly improved. Gasoline octane, for example, is ten points higher now than it was ten years ago—while in the same period the amount Imperial receives for a gallon of gasoline has gone down.

Calgary Power Has Served Alberta For Fifty Years

Calgary Power Ltd. supplies over 60 per cent of the electric energy requirements and one-half the population of Alberta in a service area of some 75,000 square miles. The Company has served the province for fifty years, over which period it has extended the benefits of low cost electric service into much of the populated area of the province.

The company's load reached over two billion kilowatt hours in 1960—over twice what it was in 1954. To meet this rapidly growing load further expansion of plant and distribution facilities was completed during the last year.

Extensions to the Spray and Rundle hydro plants, on the Bow River, added 102,000 horsepower to the system, bringing the company's total generating capacity to over 650,000 horsepower. These extensions more than double the capacity of the Spray and Rundle plants.

The automatic and remote Control Centre at Seebe was extended to accommodate the new units at Spray and Rundle. With this addition the total plant capacity remotely controlled from this centre totals 404,000 horsepower located in ten plants on the Bow River.

In recent years the company has developed a combination of hydro-electric and thermal power plants, which supply its customers with power at the lowest possible cost.

The hydro plants are designed to carry the system's peak load and the thermal plants the base load. In 1963 the system was principally hydro, however, at the end of 1960 35 per cent of the company's generating capacity was thermal and by 1962 over 50 per cent will be thermal.

In 1960, construction commenced on a third unit of 200,000 horsepower capacity at the Wabamun steam station. This plant is currently using natural gas but by 1963 will burn coal as its main fuel from a large reserve of stripable coal nearby.

Overburden from the coal seams will be removed by a huge electrically operated dragline currently being manufactured in Great Britain. The erection of this dragline at Wabamun is scheduled to begin during 1961. Preparation of the coal field and work on the extension to the plant will continue throughout 1961 in preparation for the commissioning of the new unit in 1962.

The Brazeau River site is being developed for its storage potential. Calgary Power is engineering and constructing the dam and water-control facilities on behalf of the government of Alberta in order to alleviate, as soon as possible, the water pollution problem on the North Saskatchewan River.

Some water will be available to increase the low water flow in the North Saskatchewan next winter, and a full reservoir of 275,000 acre feet will be available for the following winter of 1962-63.

An electrical generating plant will be added to the Brazeau development when the growth in electric load in the province warrants it—probably in three or four years' time.

Transmission lines owned by the company link all the major cities and generating plants in the province. It now owns and operates over 8400 miles of transmission and distribution lines. In addition, almost 24,000 miles of line, owned by Alberta farmers have been constructed by the company through its subsidiary, Farm Electric Services Ltd.

Over 85 per cent of Alberta's inhabited farms are now electrified and Calgary Power supplies 70 per cent of these farms. Last year, service was extended to 2,000 farms, bringing the total connected by the company to 37,000.

By the end of 1960, over 430 towns, villages and hamlets in Alberta were being served by the company. These are located from the International boundary in the south to over 100 miles north of Edmonton and from the Saskatchewan border on the east to Hinton on the west.

Service to the oil industry continued to grow during 1960, as at the year end the company was serving over 30 oil and gas fields. Service in these fields included over 4,000 oil well pumps. Electric energy supplied to the oil industry during the year totalled 255,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 17 per cent over 1959.

During 1960, the company spent over 12 million dollars on the expansion of generating plant and transmission and distribution facilities. This brings the total investment by the company in utility plant to some 144 million dollars at the year end.

The demand for electric service continued strong in 1960 despite a drop in residential construction in the province. Industry continued to establish and expand in Alberta, based on a growing market in western Canada and low cost energy and raw materials.

It is expected that in 1961 the province's electric load will continue to increase although at a somewhat lower rate than has occurred over the past ten years.

Although this was the first time it was held, the CYO are thinking of making it an annual event because it was enjoyed immensely by everyone.

Letter to the Editor

The Journal is in receipt of the following letter from the Alberta Tuberculosis Association:
Edmonton, Alberta,
Feb. 6, 1961.

Mr. T. Holstead,
Publisher,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Holstead:
I am sure your readers will be glad to learn that the Christmas Seal Sale has again been brought to a successful conclusion. To the more than 100,000 Alberta people who contributed we extend our sincere thanks. We are deeply indebted to the Kinsmen Club who sponsor the Seal Sale in Lethbridge and district, and also appreciate the help received from many individuals during the campaign.

On behalf of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, I wish to express our gratitude to The Coleman Journal for the valuable aid in bringing the campaign to the attention of the public.

While, unfortunately, there is as yet no decline in the number of new cases of tuberculosis being discovered, we feel that our various case-finding programs, in co-operation with the provincial Department of Health, are uncovering the disease in earlier stages, thereby improving the prospect of recovery and reducing the possibility of spreading infection. We shall continue our efforts along these lines with every resource at our command.

Yours sincerely,
T. A. WRIGHT, M.D.,
President, Alberta
Tuberculosis Assn.
